Investment Manager Commentary

Indonesian equity market booked positive performance. Rupiah appreciated 0.4%, outperforming other currencies in ASEAN. There was USD645.9m net foreign flow. Several emerging data strengthen the narrative that The Fed will not rush to cut interest rates. The above have resulted in revised market expectation on the amount and timing of Fed Funds rate cuts, to be more aligned with indications given by the Fed. For Indonesia, early vote count results indicate that there will only be one round of general election. That has been welcomed by the market as it is perceived to reduce the uncertainties. Portfolio allocations in communication services and health care contributed positive attributions, meanwhile allocations in materials and consumer discretionary contributed negative attributions to performance.
