Investment Manager Commentary

Equity market weakened in August overshadowed by external uncertainty such as; escalation of US – China trade tension, Yuan devaluation and yield inversion between US Treasury 2 & 10 years raised concern on global economic recession. US and China state additional tariff to a number of imported goods which will take effect 1 September and 15 December. Yuan devaluation also weighed on market sentiments because it is feared that China will use Yuan as a tool to fight the trade conflict with US. However China government states that Yuan weakening is due to market mechanism and China central bank will support Yuan exchange rate. JCI weakened by 0.97% while China equity market denominated in IDR weakened by 5.34%. Rupiah weakened by 1.26% to 14,198 against USD. In order to support growth Bank Indonesia cut interest rate for the second time this year by 25 basis points to be 5.50%. Lower portfolio performance compared to benchmark was due to allocation in energy, financials and IT. Meanwhile telecommunication contributed positively to performance.
