Investment Manager Commentary

Throughout April Indonesia financial market fluctuated overshadowed by elections, release of first quarter financial results and increase in world oil prices. JCI weakened by 0.21% while BINDO weakened by 0.06%. Surged in 10 year US Treasury yield which touched 2.60% driven by positive data from US labor force had become a weight on Indonesia bond market performance. As expected Bank Indonesia maintain interest rate at 6.0%. Better than estimated March trade balance – surplus of USD540.20 million – together with continued increase in foreign reserves gives support for Rupiah's exchange rate. YTD Rupiah has strengthened 0.92% against US dollars. April inflation rose to 2.83% from 2.48% in the previous month. Good stock & bond selection contributed positive attribution to portfolio.
