Investment Manager Commentary

Indonesia equity market was volatile in April due to concern of rising COVID-19 cases in Asia that affect risk appetite towards Asia equity markets. On the positive note, US Treasury yield has shown stabilization at 1.5 - 1.6% that provide relief for the markets. US Treasury stabilized following various commentary from The Fed that emphasized monetary policy will remain accommodative. On the domestic front, recovery continues apace with Q1-2021 GDP at -0.7% YoY, improved from -2.2% in Q4-2020. Several economic data such as property, car, cement sales, and manufacturing activity shows improvement in March - April period as the govenrment introduced tax incentive for property and automotive sectors. These recovery strengthen the case for stronger recovery in Q2-2021. Foreign investor posted net sell of IDR3.5 trillion in the equity market, while Rupiah appreciated 0.5% in April to IDR14,445 per USD. Portfolio allocation in real estate and IT contributed positive attribution, meanwhile allocation in energy and financials contributed negative attribution to performance.
