Investment Manager Commentary

The equity market posted positive performance in February driven by expectation of global economic recovery as vaccination began globally and the plan of additional USD1.9 trillion from the US. However the market turned volatile at the end of February as concerns of inflation could spike in the US that could force The Fed to tighten its monetary policy sooner than expected. On the domestic front, Bank Indonesia cut its benchmark rate from 3.75% to 3.50%. BI and the government also introduced incentives to ease credit for property and automotive vehicles in a bid to support demand recovery. Indonesia GDP posted contraction -2.19% YoY in Q4-2020, better compared to -3.49% in Q3-2020 that indicate recovering condition at the final quarter of 2020. Portfolio allocation in materials and real estate contributed positive attribution, meanwhile allocation in IT and financials contributed negative attribution to performance.
