Investment Manager Commentary

Improvements in macro conditions did not translate to the performance of Indonesian stock market, which recorded a decline during the volatility in US Treasury yield. Despite positive net inflow from foreign investors of IDR3.52 trillion, most market participants still stood on the sidelines while monitoring the pandemic mitigation. Compared to the 2013 taper tantrum, Indonesia macro is in much better conditions; current account deficit is narrowing, inflation is low, trade balance is improved and sovereign rating is better. Successful pandemic mitigation and execution of reforms are crucial factors to improve investor confidence, financial markets and the economy going forward. Portfolio allocation in communication services and financials contributed positive attribution, meanwhile allocation in industrials and consumer discretionary contributed negative attribution to performance.
