Investment Manager Commentary

The Indonesian bond market gain traction in February which mainly driven by the Individual investor as new retail investors consistently add exposure to the government bonds at the back of lower time deposit interest rate and the surge of market volatility. Despite the 10Y yield rose from 6.42% to 6.50%, the index still posted positive performance as some other bucket tenor yield dropped. The escalating tension between Russia Ukraine is the primary risk of the global financial market including Indonesian bond market. In addition, the headwinds also coming from the Fed's FOMC January meeting minutes released in February that reiterate plan to raise the federal funds rate in March. From the domestic factor, the sentiment remains constructive for bond market, Moody's affirms Indonesia's Baa2 issuer rating and maintains stable outlook. Bank Indonesia has decided to hold the policy rate at 3.50% and stated that they will not rush to raise interest rate as the current inflation figure at 2.06% still way below upper limit of BI inflation target at 4%. Yields on short tenor bonds rose more than medium tenors.
