Investment Manager Commentary

Indonesia bond market was volatile in June, weighed by negative sentiment from the global markets. The Fed raised its benchmark rate by 75bps in June to 1.50%-1.75%, the largest and most aggressive rate hike since 1994 as US inflation rose to 40-year high. On the flip side, the markets were concerned that aggressive rate hike could put pressure on global growth or even cause recession. On the domestic market, inflation also rose to 4.35% YoY, above BI's upper target of 4%, due to poor harvest of chilli and shallots. On the positive note, the government raised the budget for energy subsidy and compensation that allows the government to maintain Pertamina fuel price and subsidized electricity price. This should put the lid on inflation pressure and support purchasing power. Bank Indonesia maintains benchmark rate at 3.50%, stating that core inflation remain low at 2.63%. The yield curve showed mixed pattern with the yield of short-tenor and long-tenor declined, while the medium-tenor rose.
