Investment Manager Commentary

Asia equity market was varied in May, where China equity underperformed, while South Korea and Taiwan outperformed. China economic data indicated fading recovery momentum with retail sales and industrial production growth were slower than expected. As global demand slows, China exports were under pressure -7.5% YoY in May, that leads to concern of its impact to China's domestic consumption. Meanwhile, optimism of development in artificial intelligence supported technology sector and its supply chain in South Korea and Taiwan. India positive equity market was encourage by positive economic data, with manufacturing and inflation were better than expectation. Portfolio allocation in IT and consumer staples contributed positive attribution, meanwhile allocation consumer discretionary and industrial contributed negative attribution to performance.
