Investment Manager Commentary

Indonesia and China equity market was volatile in September. Market sentiment was affected by The Fed's higher for longer outlook amid resilient US economy and inflation. Higher oil price and the risk of US government shutdown were also affecting overall risk appetite. On the domestic front, inflation continue to moderate, with annual inflation dropped to 2.3% from 3.3% in August. The sharp drop was triggered by the high base in September 2022 when fuel prices were increased significantly. Bank Indonesia continue maintaining its benchmark rate for the eighth consecutive month of rate hike pause. BI emphasized that its key policy focus is to safeguard Rupiah stability amid strong USD trend and volatile global market condition. Meanwhile, China's consumption data showed early signs of improvement, fueling expectation that the worst period has been passed in China. Portfolio allocations in communications and IT contributed positive attributions, meanwhile allocations in industrials and materials contributed negative attributions to performance.
