Investment Manager Commentary

Indonesia equity was volatile in January as investors dialed down their expectation of swift interest rate cut from The Fed. Indonesia macro indicators remain stable in January 2024. Headline inflation came in at 2.6% YoY in January from 2.8% YoY in December. GDP growth slightly improved to 5.04% YoY in Q4-2023, up from 4.94% in the previous quarter, making 2023 GDP growth of 5.05%. From the global side, a number of emerging data strengthen the narrative that The Fed will not rush to cut interest rates. Stronger than expected US data such as employment, manufacturing, and consumer sentiment signals The Fed won't rush to cut rates. Meanwhile China equity was weaker in January due to weak economic outlook and lack of potential stimulus from the government. Portfolio allocations in utilities and materials contributed positive attributions, meanwhile allocations in IT and financials contributed negative attributions to performance.
