Investment Manager Commentary

Asia equity market was positive in June, continuing the trend from previous month. Latest projection from The Fed in June indicate cautious stance and median forecast of only one rate cut this year. Meanwhile US economic data showed signs of moderation with inflation came lower and labor data softer that drove market optimism of more aggressive rate cut from The Fed. IT sector was the best performing sector in the region in June following the market's optimism of Fed rate cut and positive outlook on AI. In terms of country, Taiwan, South Korea, and India markets were positive, while China posted loss. The market was disappointed by softer Chinese economic data and looks to the plenary meeting in July for signs of further pro-growth policy. Portfolio allocations in materials contributed positive attributions, meanwhile allocations in industrials contributed negative attributions to performance.
