Investment Manager Commentary

The equity market was volatile in November, where uncertainty on Fed Funds Rate (FFR) cut in December overshadowed market sentiment early in the month, following hawkish comment from Fed Chair Powell. However the market rebounded as several Fed officials supports further rate cut in December amid weaker labor data. On the domestic front, GDP growth 3Q-2025 came at +5.04%, lower than 5.12% the previous quarter. Consumption is weaker with household consumption grew at +4.89%, its lowest growth since 4Q-2023. Bank Indonesia maintained BI Rate at 4.75% inline with market expectation. BI appears to balanced its view, indicating the need to stabilize Rupiah while also indicating further room to cut interest rates. Going forward, the market will continue to monitor The Fed's policy outlook in December, and the acceleration in government spending, seen as a key factor to support growth in 2026. China equities fell in November due to weak economic data in the month. Portfolio allocations in materials contributed positive attributions, meanwhile allocations in energy contributed negative attributions to performance.
