Investment Manager Commentary

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities posted negative return in June due to profit-taking in technology-related stocks, heightened geopolitical uncertainty, and growing concerns that global interest rates may remain elevated for longer following a more hawkish Federal Reserve policy stance. The key global event during the month was the first FOMC meeting chaired by Kevin Warsh, where the Federal Reserve maintained a relatively hawkish tone. Meanwhile, oil prices eased later in the month as US-Iran ceasefire negotiations progressed. South Korea and Taiwan underperformed, as investors took profits in semiconductor and AI-related names following their strong gains earlier in 2026. Rising global bond yields and concerns over the sustainability of AI-related capital expenditure weighed on technology-heavy markets. China also underperformed as investor sentiment was pressured by softer consumer spending data, ongoing concerns regarding domestic demand, and weakness in internet and EV stocks. Meanwhile India was relatively resilient, supported by lower oil prices that should lessen inflation risks. Portfolio allocations in consumer discretionary contributed positive attributions, meanwhile allocations in industrials contributed negative attributions to performance.
